Presentation

This presentation is primarily for woodland owners who want to understand more about their options for harvesting trees on their property – whether you hope to derive income, to increase future growth and value, to obtain firewood, to manage wildlife habitat, or other goals. Whether you intend to cut your own trees, or contract with a logger, this session will cover the most important questions to address ahead of time.

We'll discuss working with professionals, forest growth and choosing which trees to cut, stumpage prices, harvesting equipment and layout, timber harvest contracts, forestry rules and requirements, and other topics.

We'll also touch on how Tree Growth Property Tax status might affect your timber harvest planning. Foresters, loggers and others may also find the discussion interesting and are welcome to attend.

Since the presentation is geared toward helping landowners get the results you want, we'll also talk about and provide additional resources for identifying and achieving your own woodland objectives, both in the immediate future and for the longer term.
